SESSION COSTING COUNTRY VAST SUM

Appropriations are the Largest in the Nation's History.

NEARLY TWO BILLIONS SPENT

Senate Ratifies Treaty for Purchase of Danish West Indies During Its Closing Hours; President Goes to the Capitol and Signs Many Bills.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Congress adjourned this morning at 10 o'clock, concluding a session record-breaking in many respects, with appropriations and authorizations for the future running well toward two billion dollars.

Only a small portion of members were on hand to watch the session die. Most had hurried to their homes at the end of the late session last night, or even days before, and the month after the political campaign is finished in November they must return for the short session.

Last night both houses accepted the conference report on the emergency revenue bill without record vote and the Senate before recessing an hour after midnight ratified the Danish West Indies purchase treaty. The general deficiency appropriation bill also was approved and reported by conference. Today's session was necessitated only by need for time to reprint the measure in the proper form to be signed. Conferees reached an agreement on the bill in the evening after spending two days on it.

The Senate began its session at 8 A. M., following an adjournment at 1 A. M., upon passage of the emergency revenue bill. At the outset Senator James Hamilton, Lewis sought to have passed the Spanish War widow's pension bill. Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia announced that such a measure could not pass for several years if he could prevent it.

Senator Owen then addressed the Senate on his corrupt practices bill. He announced that he would not further press his bill at this session, but would let it remain the unfinished business before that body and call it up again next session.

A resolution by Senator Curtis of Kansas directing the Senate lobby committee to investigate the activities of an alleged foreign lobby opposing ratification provisions of the revenue bill against Canadian fisheries was passed today by the Senate.

Soon after 5 o'clock President Wilson went to the Capitol to sign bills. The President held a reception in his room as a line of senators and representatives passed through while he sat at the table signing bills.

As the President was about to sign the $20 widow's pension bill with Representative Ashbrook of Ohio, its sponsor, by his side, Senators Smith of Georgia and Bryan of Florida, who opposed it vigorously until the last minute, entered the President's room and Mr. Ashbrook asked them to witness the signature. The President smiled as the two senators hurried away.

The President congratulated the leaders on the opportunity for a "well earned rest." Officially he informed them that he had nothing further to communicate to the Congress. When they left the President's room the chief executive was joined by Secretary Lansing, who chatted with him as he continued to sign bills.

Senators Kern and Smoot, and Representatives Kitchin, Fitzgerald and Mann were the committee to notify the President that Congress was about to adjourn. The President, having nothing to communicate to either body, and the committee so reporting, the Senate adjourned at 9:59 and the House one minute later.

In a statement issued following the adjournment of Congress President Wilson called attention to the "helpful and human legislation" passed and declared that while he regretted additional legislation dealing with the recent dispute between the railroads and their employees had not been completed, he had every reason to believe the question would be taken up immediately after Congress reassembled.

ASSERTS STRIKE WILL BE BROKEN

"King of the Strikebreakers" Takes Charge of New York's Traction Situation.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Having frustrated the efforts of its striking employees to tie up the subway and elevated railways, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company today turned its attention to its surface lines, which have been crippled since the strike was declared Wednesday night. All cars on the so-called "green" line, representing the greater part of the surface system in Manhattan and the Bronx, were withdrawn at 8 o'clock last night after maintaining through the day a service barely 20 per cent of normal.

When the surface cars were started out again at 8 o'clock this morning the situation was in charge of James P. Waddell, known as the king of strikebreakers. Waddell came here from Chicago last night, making the run by special train in 20 hours. He promised to crush the strike in 48 hours. Subway and elevated trains ran last night and this morning as usual.

A number of elevated trains were attacked during the early morning but in no case was there any approach to a mob riot. The strike thus far, according to Waddell, has cost the traction company $200,000.

CONNELLVILLE MAN IS CONVICTED

Found Guilty on Serious Charge Preferred Against Him by Lelander Girl.

Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, Sept. 8.—Everett Brown, head of the shoe department in a Connellsville store, and formerly a clerk in a Uniontown shoe store and confectionery, was tried today before Judge J. C. Van Swearingen, accused of being the father of a girl, born July 21 last to Miss Mabel Murray, 19 years old, of Lelander No. 1. He was found guilty.

Miss Murray testified that she met Brown at a party about a year ago and since last October he had been intimate with her. She testified that he is the father of her child.

Brown denied the charge, and claimed that Byron Alter of Connellsville was keeping company with her last fall and last winter. He admitted calling upon the girl at her home.

The case of William Betts, Tony O'Connell and Paul Roscoe, tried before Judge Van Swearingen for holding up and robbing Loll Jager at Letha on last July 5, went to the jury this forenoon. The three men are accused of robbing the foreigner of about $13.

WILLIAM SEDDON, COAL EXPERT AND ENGINEER IS DEAD

Expires Suddenly at His Home in Brownsville From Indigestion.

WAS A SELF-INSTRUCTED MAN

Early Recognized Opportunities for Advancement Through a Wider Knowledge of Coal Mining; Was Founder of Institutes and First Aid.

William Seddon, one of the most widely known mining men of Western Pennsylvania, died suddenly from acute indigestion at his home in Brownsville yesterday afternoon. Of the many men who have risen to prominence in coal mining and coke producing circles of Pennsylvania have had a more diversified experience or have been more industriously associated with the development of the industry than William Seddon. Beginning as a coal digger when a young man he early saw the possibilities for advancement to a man who would improve his opportunities. He devoted his spare hours to a study of all the available authorities on coal mining and acquired a knowledge and grasp of the subject which soon placed him in positions of trust and responsibility. By successive advances he finally became district superintendent of the Monongahela Coal & Coke Company, having five of the most important river mines in the vicinity of Brownsville under his charge.

Meantime he interested other mining men in the formation of the Western Pennsylvania Mining Institute, the first organization of its kind in this section of the state. He was made secretary and continued in that capacity for many years until it was merged with and succeeded by the Coal Mining Institute of America, which is national in its scope and activities. He founded the Brownsville Mining Institute, an association of persons employed in the management of mines in the Brownsville district, and served that body as president, in which capacity he became the originator of First Aid work, having organized and instructed a team at the Newtown mine in the methods of rendering first aid to injured miners.

In the midst of his activities as a mine superintendent and as secretary of the Mining Institute, Mr. Seddon found time to contribute carefully prepared articles on mining for the leading publications in the industry. He became associated with Rufus J. Foster, editor and proprietor of the Colliery Engineer, in the foundation of the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, and served as an advisory member of the faculty of that institution.

A few years ago he retired from active work in the management of mines but continued in private practice as a consulting mining engineer and coal expert. As such he was engaged in coal fields in all sections of the United States. Just recently he completed a very exhaustive inspection of a large coal mining area in Utah.

William Seddon was born at Wigan, England, May 12, 1850. He received a common school education in his native country and early in life began to earn a livelihood in the coal mines. He worked himself into a position which would be equivalent to a mine foreman in America when he emigrated with his wife to this country in 1883. Mrs. Seddon died at Brownsville March 30, 1915. About two weeks ago Mr. Seddon was united in marriage with Miss Helen Bryte of Pittsburg. In addition to his widow he is survived by two sons, W. Harry Seddon of Brownsville, and Percy E. Seddon of the Harmony & Butler Railway Company, Pittsburg.

The deceased was almost as busy a man in activities outside of his profession as he was in it. He served the Brownsville Lodge No. 60, Free and Accepted Masons, as secretary for seven years and the Brownsville Board of Health in the same office for four years. He was a member of Brownsville Chapter No. 161, Royal Arch Masons; St. Omars' Commandery No. 7, Knights Templar; Uniontown Lodge of Perfection; and Pittsburg Consistory. Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, and Knights of the Mystic Shrine, Pittsburg. He was also a member of Brownsville Lodge No. 51, Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, Brownsville, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Masons having charge of the services. Interment will be made in Radstone cemetery.

"ECONOMY" OF
THE DEMOCRATS
MEANS BILLIONS

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Congress at the session closed today appropriated exactly $1,626,439,210, which, with obligations and authorizations for the future, makes the total $1,858,384,485.

These figures, announced in speeches by Representative Fitzgerald of New York, Democrat, and Gillett of Massachusetts, Republican, were defended by the former and attacked by the latter as half a billion dollars greater than any session of a Republican Congress.

WHITE SLAVE CHARGE MADE

Police Say Getell Attempted to Cause Downfall of Pretty Girl, Just From Ireland.

Ed Getell, who says he is a special officer for the Bessmore Coal Company, is being held in the lockup here until his case is investigated by County Detective John Smith. Meanwhile, charges have been made against him by Captain E. F. Ludwig of the Baltimore & Ohio police. Getell is accused of impersonating an officer and enticing a minor for immoral purposes.

A young girl from Ireland, Miss Kathleen Freeman, coming to America to visit her sister, Miss Minnie Freeman, head waitress at the Hotel Lafayette at Uniontown, arrived here at noon yesterday. She was to change trains for Uniontown at the Baltimore & Ohio station here, but became confused and missed the 4 o'clock train. Inquiring into her predicament, Getell approached the girl and told her he was a Baltimore & Ohio detective and that he would take care of her.

Getell, it is said, took the girl to the Hotel Haas. He says he left her in the parlor there while he called Miss Freeman at Uniontown. Miss Freeman came to Connellsville at once and took her young sister to the county seat on the 7:30 car. Getell wanted to take the girl to Uniontown in an automobile, but Mrs. Walton of the Hotel Haas would not let her go.

Getell, who tells a very plausible story, claims that he only did a kind act by caring for the confused immigrant girl. Officials, however, feel that they have arrested a white slave, and that they will uncover some kind of a white slave plot here. Detective Smith, who is expected in Connellsville this afternoon, gave orders to "positively hold" Getell until his arrival.

RAIN SPOILS CELEBRATION

Firemen From Out of Town Do Not Come Here After Heavy Rain in Morning.

The weather man successfully put a crimp in the plans for a successful Fire Prevention Day yesterday. Fire departments which had promised to attend and bring their apparatus for the contests declined to come after the heavy rain in the morning. Uniontown, Brownsville and Mount Pleasant trucks, which had entered in the truck race, decided not to undertake the journey here over the muddy roads.

The only out of town firemen who came were Carrick and South Connellsville. It was up to the local volunteers to provide some sort of a program so the two local trucks gave an exhibition run and held 25 feet of hose after the fire and accident prevention speeches on North Pittsburg street. This part of the program was a big success. The safety speeches by Francis Feehan, C. A. Vinton, A. N. Cartwright, J. E. Angle and M. B. Pryce were full of good suggestions for avoiding fires and other accidents. It was to be regretted that more people could not have heard these addresses.

Announcement was made today of the prizes awarded for the best decorative automobiles in the parade on Wednesday night. The first award of $25 went to the Connellsville Steam Laundry and the second and third prizes of $15 and $10 were lumped and divided among the Munson & Heister company, F. E. Ducker, Wells-Mills, and J. E. Angle.

Reckless Driving Alleged.

Gay Lynch of Uniontown was arrested by Constable Fawson of the West Side this morning. Lynch will appear here for a hearing before Alderman O'Donovan next Tuesday. The charges, reckless driving and malicious mischief, were preferred by Rocco Audobatto of Brookville, who says that Lynch ran into his fence with an automobile, and totally wrecked the said fence.

A MINE RESCUE STATION TO BE LOCATED HERE

Fire Department Will Be Headquarters for This Section of Region.

TO TRAIN THE TEAMS THERE

W. G. Duncan, Inspector for Associated Companies Outlines Plan Which Meets With Approval of Safety Department; Council to Act Monday.

Connellsville has been selected as the location for a Mine Rescue Station to be located at the fire department headquarters. Lung motors and other life-saving equipment will be located there and instruction in their operation will be given there to classes from all mines in this section of the coke region. The plan was outlined today to Director of Public Safety M. B. Pryce by W. G. Duncan of Connellsville, senior inspector for Southwestern Pennsylvania for the Associated Companies. Council's approval of the plan will be asked next Monday night. This, however, is practically assured.

The station will be established here without cost to the city and the equipment will be for the use of the fire department if necessary for that purpose in a city fire. Lung motors equipped to permit a man to breathe in any kind of atmosphere for two hours will be installed in a room at the fire department.

The expense of such a station will be assessed against coal and coke operators in this section. They will thus get a reduction of 30 cents per $100 of payroll in their compensation insurance. A number of operators, Mr. Duncan said, have already expressed their willingness to cooperate.

Mr. Duncan will have charge of the establishment of the station and will first train the firemen in the use of the apparatus. Teams from the various mines will be organized and brought here for instruction. A representative of the Pittsburgh station of the United States Bureau of Mines will examine any of the men who desire United States safety certificates.

Lives can be saved by having the apparatus here, Mr. Duncan states. Whenever a call is received for it, the five small trucks containing the apparatus can be loaded on an automobile and carried to the mine where the accident occurred. There the rescue team can penetrate the mine and bring out or revive injured workmen.

A meeting at which the plan will be outlined to coke and coal operators will be called for the near future.

COKE PRODUCERS

Meet and Consult With Each Other Over Troubles and Prospects.

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the Coke Producers Association yesterday at the office of the Consolidated Coke Company, Uniontown, resolved itself into a sort of experience meeting. The several operators rebounded the difficulties they are experiencing on account of the shortage of labor at a period when there is a demand for more coke than he produced.

Relief from this condition does not appear to be in sight and is not expected so long as present weather conditions prevail and the demand for men is so urgent in other industries.

MAY SUE PRESIDENT.

Markleysburg Man, Run Down By Wilson's Car, Seeks Damages.

J. N. Thomas of Markleysburg, who was run down and injured by an automobile in Uniontown, July 16, has decided to enter suit for damages but is in a quandary as to who to name as defendant. The car bore a Maryland license, No. 4003, which the Maryland Commissioner of Roads said was issued to President Woodrow Wilson.

President Wilson was not in the automobile when the accident occurred, but his chauffeur, John H. Sacker, may be named in the suit. Mr. Thomas has retained Attorney R. M. Carroll of Uniontown to prosecute the action.

BITTEN BY DOG.

Frank Wright Attacked When He Asks Dog to "Shake."

F. W. Wright, Jr., son of F. W. Wright of the Wright-Metzer Company, was bitten on the hand when he held out the thumb to shake the paw of S. S. Clark's box terrier in front of the First National Bank yesterday.

The dog's teeth sank into the fleshy part of Frank's right hand. The wound was cauterized and the youth is carrying the hand in a sling now.

Mrs. Frank Herwick was operated on this morning at the Cottage State Hospital. Mike Bastosky of Star Junction, 40 years old, was admitted to the hospital for treatment.

A HEALTHY GAIN IN REGISTRATION

First Day's Figures Show Increase of 106 Voters Over Same Day Last Year.

The number of voters to register on the first day set aside for that purpose this year—yesterday—was 106 in excess of the opening day last year. The result may be attributed to the fact that this year a Presidential contest is being waged, with resultant increase in interest. Last year was an off-year politically, and the registration figures reflected it.

The Republicans gained 39 and the Democrats 53 in yesterday's registration. There is no special significance in the Democratic increase. Last year there were only 117 Democrats in Connellsville who registered as such, an unusually poor showing for that party, in view of the fact that it now controls the national administration.

A total of 581 voters registered yesterday against 475 last year. Of the 351, 350 enrolled as Republicans, 170 as Democrats, 59 as Socialists, 14 as Prohibitionists and 5 as Independents, with 31 failing to express a preference.

The figures show rather conclusively that the Washington party voters, who cut such a big figure in the 1912 campaign and were still in force in 1914, are not flocking to Woodrow Wilson's banner, as the Democrats have hoped.

The First and Sixth were the wards that showed fewer registrations on the first day over last year, the First being 6 voters shy and the Sixth with 47. The Second gained 2, Third 10 and Fourth 4 over last year. The tabulated figures follow:

Ward	Total	Rep	Dem	1915
First	73	58	13	70
Second	62	32	26	60
Third	89	44	34	74
Fourth	72	28	24	68
Fifth	94	57	32	49
Sixth	87	45	13	63
Seventh	155	106	28	73

Total	581	390	170	475
Socialists—1	in Third ward, 3 in Fourth, 2 in Fifth, total 9.
Prohibitionists—3	in Second, 1 in Fifth, 1 in Sixth, total 5.
Independent—1	in Second, 2 in Third, 2 in Seventh, total 5.
No preference—2	in First, 5 in Third, 17 in Fourth, 1 in Fifth, 5 in Sixth, total 31.
ANOTHER CASE OF INFANT PLAGUE

Baby Boy at Elm Grove Is Victim; Conscience May Also Have New Case.

Another case of infantile paralysis has developed at Elm Grove, the victim being Harold Brinker, the one year old son of Richard Brinker. This makes the fifth case of the infant scourge in Fayette county.

Investigation of the illness of the Brinker child yesterday by Dr. O. R. Altman of Uniontown, Fayette county representative of the State Department of Health, showed that the child's left leg is paralyzed. The mother of the child is Mrs. Kenneth Gooderham of Barnesboro, who is visiting at the home of Joseph Easton. The Brinker home is directly back of the Easton home not more than a distance of 40 feet. There are five children in the Brinker family.

It was reported at Confluence that the four year old boy of Frank Mitchell was a victim. Up to noon physicians were not ready to state positively that the child has infantile paralysis, but they fear such is the case.

It is reported that there are several cases along the White Creek branch, in the vicinity of Lutsburg. It is said no quarantine regulations are being observed. A second child in the family of Harry Davis died yesterday. One died several days ago, a victim of the plague. It is also reported that a child in the Metz family at Beachley has been stricken.

Of the four children taken ill at Confluence, one, that of Thomas Cunningham, has recovered without ill effects. One of Albert Hayt's children is badly crippled and the other slightly so. The child of Frank Hayner died.

JAWS LOCKED SIX YEARS

Baggaley Miner Substituted by Sucking Liquid Food Through Teeth.

For the first time in six years, Joseph Heintzelman, a miner of Baggaley, is able to open his mouth. Until Wednesday his jaws were so tightly clenched shut that the blade of a table knife could not find entrance between the jaws of teeth.

Notwithstanding this affliction, Heintzelman lived and maintained his strength by drawing gruels and juices through his teeth. He worked steadily in the mines. His jaws were locked when he suffered from a siege of abscesses following an attack of typhoid fever. When he healed it was found that he could not open his mouth.

CORN ROAST A SUCCESS.

Odd Fellows Eat Roasting Ears and Are Well Entertained.

The Odd Fellows held a corn roast last evening at Murphy Sidling. Over 350 people were present. Most of these came on the special car which had been chartered, but quite a few made the trip in automobiles. Slightly dozen roasting ears were eaten.

The South Connellsville band furnished music, and speeches were made by Harry Sisco, J. J. Barnhart and John Wilder, the toastmaster. The affair was unmarred by accident.

THREE FIRMS ARE INTERESTED IN A
LOCATION CHANGE

W. N. Leche, the Horner Company and C. Roy Hetzel in Deal.

ARE TO GET NEW STOREROOMS

Leche and Hetzel Will Occupy Large Storeroom in Woolworth Building, While Horner Will Take Over the Leche Location; Veterans in Trade.

Announcement of an important exchange of locations by two Main street business firms was made today. Arrangements have been made whereby W. N. Leche will occupy the storeroom in the Woolworth Building in which The Horner Company's clothing store is located, while the latter company will take over the Leche storeroom in the Munson Building. C. Roy Hetzel will occupy the eastern side of the Woolworth room as a drug store.

The exchange will be effective September 15, but Mr. Hetzel will not be ready to open his store until about October 15. The Horner store was closed this afternoon to make ready for a removal sale and the Leche store is taking inventory for a similar reduction of stocks prior to moving.

Each of the three business men involved in the transaction will make improvements to the storeroom he is to occupy, adapting it to his particular needs. The lower display window in the Woolworth building will be used by the Leche store and the upper one by the Hetzel pharmacy. There will be but one entrance, but the lobby will be divided so as to permit doors to each establishment.

The Hetzel drug store will extend back 11 feet from the front of the building. The rest of the spacious room will be used by Mr. Leche. Each will have part of the basement for storage.

The deal involves three of the most prominent business men in the city. In point of time in business, Mr. Horner is one of the oldest in the city, though he is still a comparatively young man. He branched out for himself in October, 1881, and will soon complete his 35th consecutive year in the clothing business. He learned the tailor's trade under his father, H. C. Horner. He spent three years in Pittsburg working as a cutter for J. Jackson and later for Eisner & Phillips, leading Pittsburg clothing men in those days. He was in the merchant tailoring business alone here for three years and then formed a partnership with J. W. McLaren. After five years this firm was dissolved. Since that time Mr. Horner conducted a clothing store in his own name until three years ago, when the company was incorporated under the name of The Horner Company.

Mr. Horner announces that the front of the new room he is to occupy will be greatly improved.

W. N. Leche has been in business in Connellsville for 16 years. He is one of the oldest dry goods merchants still in business. He came here from Lancaster, and associated himself with H. S. Buckwalter and S. M. Myers, under the name of Leche, Buckwalter & Company. Mr. Myers was a silent partner in the enterprise. They opened in a modest way in the Munson Building, occupying a store room 70 by 18 1-2. Twelve additional store rooms have been taken in until the business now occupies the entire 165-foot depth of the building. Mr. Leche bought out the business for himself in 1905. Mr. Buckwalter going to California, where he is now in the fruit growing business. Mr. Myers died some years ago.

"Our business has been quietly, but steadily growing," said Mr. Leche, "until our present quarters became entirely too small. We need better and more convenient room and a better display window, especially for our ladies' and children's wear. This we will have in our new location."

C. Roy Hetzel has been manager of Huston's Drug Store on Main street for the last 10 years. He was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh and was associated with Porter & Porter, Henderson's and other big Pittsburg drug stores before returning to his home town to locate. He became attached to the Huston store 11-12 years ago and soon afterward was made manager. He is one of the best druggists in the city. Mr. Hetzel states that he is planning a thoroughly modern drug store, with soda fountain and every department complete. It will occupy half the width of the room.

Two members of the State Constabulary were in town last night, visiting the carnival on the West Side. Incidentally, they closed a few of the concessions while there. They left late last night for Greensburg.

FOUR CALLS KEEP DEPARTMENT BUSY

Garage on the South Side is the Most Serious Blaze; One Alarm Proves False.

The fire department was called out four times last night to small blazes, one of which narrowly missed being a serious one. An alarm turned in from Box 55, summoning the firemen to the Eleventh street hill, proved to be false. The garage of William S. Storey on Patterson avenue, near Isabella road, caught fire in some unknown way early last evening. Mr. Storey ran his car out before the flames had caught it, but the rolls of wall paper which he stored in the building were totally ruined by water.

The blaze was rather hard to fight. Behind the stacks of wall paper the firemen could see the red glow of the fire, but they could not get to it. They first used chemicals, but these were worthless, for they could not reach the flames. Finally deciding to drown out the fire, the firemen deluged the place with water. The building itself was saved.

Another fire called the department to the South Side soon after they had returned from the Storey blaze. The call came by telephone, and when the truck arrived at the place designated they could find no sign of a blaze. Soon after returning from their fruitless trip, the firemen were again called, and this time they located the fire, which was in a frame dwelling house on South Arch street, past the Fough brewery. Before they arrived the second time, however, the blaze had been extinguished by a hand chemical tank secured from the Baltimore & Ohio shops nearby. It is suspected that this fire was of incendiary origin.

BRIDGES DANGEROUS

Those Between Here and Pennsville in Need of Repairs.

Travelers over the road between Connelleville and Pennsville report that the bridges in that section are a menace to safety. Two of them seem to be in danger of collapse any minute and heavy wagons and automobiles pass over them at great risk.

The small bridge near Moyer has a hole in it five or six inches in diameter. Anyone crossing this on foot might suffer severe injury if he stepped in this hole in the darkness. Someone tossed a big rock in the hole to indicate to drivers to pass around it.

The other bridges are also in bad condition and need new timbers badly. Automobiles going to the Old Fellows' corn roast last night discovered the bad condition of the bridges and warnings were given to other drivers to proceed carefully on all of the structures.

These bridges are on the state road and their maintenance comes under the State Highway Department.

"The Trump Run bridge on the South Side is also in bad condition."

PREACHERS SCARCE

Prominent Theologian Points Out Need of Men in the Church.

Dr. H. L. Eldridge, president of the Westminster Theological Seminary for 20 years, in an address delivered yesterday at the annual session of the Protestant Church in session in Fair-ance, insisted on the great need of a theological education for all young men of the conference. Considerable difference of opinion was manifested concerning the advisability of placing a man in the field for church extension work because of the scarcity of pastors. It is believed that eight or ten of the charges may be left unsupplied.

The itinerant system which formerly prevailed in this church, as well as in all the Methodist churches, is greatly modified if not almost entirely dispensed with. A large number of pastors are already serving their charges for the fifth year or more. Five of the pastors have served on their present charges for more than ten years.

Dr. A. F. Hess, president of the Adrian College, gave a very encouraging report of the condition of the college. A feature of the conference yesterday afternoon was a reunion of the former pastors of East End Church, Uniontown.

How to avoid Operations

These Three Women Tell How They Escaped the Dreadful Ordeal of Surgical Operations.

Hospitals are great and necessary institutions, but they should be the last resort for women who suffer with ills peculiar to their sex. Many letters on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., prove that a great number of women after they have been recommended to submit to an operation have been made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here are three such letters. All sick women should read them.

Marinette, Wis.—"I went to the doctor and he told me I must have an operation for a female trouble, and I hated to have it done as I had been married only a short time. I would have terrible pains and my hands and feet were cold all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was cured, and I feel better in every way. I give you permission to publish my name because I am so thankful that I feel well again."

Mrs. Ellen Bernick, Marinette, Wis.
Detroit, Mich.—"When I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was so run down with female troubles that I could not do anything, and our doctor said I would have to undergo an operation. I could hardly walk without help so when I read about the Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others I thought I would try it. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and used them according to directions. They helped me and today I am able to do all my work and I am well."

Mrs. Thos. Dwyer, 980 Milwaukee ave., East, Detroit, Mich.
Bellevue, Pa.—"I suffered more than tongue can tell with terrible bearing down pains and inflammation. I tried several doctors and they all told me the same story, that I never could get well without an operation and I just dreaded the thought of that. I also tried a good many other medicines that were recommended to me and none of them helped me until a friend advised me to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The first bottle helped, I kept taking it and now I don't know what it is to be sick any more and I am picking up in weight. I am 20 years old and weigh 145 pounds. It will be the greatest pleasure to me if I can have the opportunity to recommend it to any other suffering woman."

—Miss Lizzie Froelicher, 1025 Manhattan St., North Side, Bellevue, Pa.
If you would like special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Sept. 8.—Two automobiles collided at the corner of College avenue and Washington street yesterday afternoon and both were more or less damaged. The car driven by Miss Reulah Ritenour ran into that driven by a minister, who declined to give either his name or his residence. The front springs of Miss Ritenour's car struck the rear of the minister's machine and damaged it so badly it had to be taken to Weimer's garage for repairs. The party it carried traveled by trolley to their destination. Miss Ritenour's machine escaped with a broken windshield. Spectators saw both cars sounding warning signals as they approached the corner, but a collision resulted despite this.

FEAR ORE SHORTAGE

Big Steel Companies Giving Serious
Attention to Supply.

Leading steel companies are giving more serious attention to the subject of maintaining an adequate supply of iron ore at blast furnaces, and fears are held that despite the strenuous efforts which now are being made to bring the largest possible tonnage from Lake Superior ports before navigation closes, in the fall, the stocks which are being piled up will not be adequate to meet the heavy demands which will be made upon them during the winter and early spring. It is believed in well-informed circles that the question of ore may exert a powerful influence on pig iron prices within the next 6 or 8 months.

The leading steelmaker now is transferring at least some of its southern furnaces, which have been engaged on foundry iron, to the manufacture of basic. This is due to the belief that the output of its stocks normally engaged in producing steel-making iron will not prove adequate and that unless it increases its output by diverting some of its stocks from the production of foundry iron, it will experience a shortage of basic.

CHINA CAN SUPPLY COAL TO THE WORLD FOR A 1,000 YEARS

Has Vast Untouched Deposits in Different Parts of the Republic.

BITUMINOUS AND ANTHRACITE

Found in Nearly Every Province and Already Being Operated; Annual Production is now 15,000,000 Tons;
Railroads Needed for Development.

Persons familiar with the extent, variety and character of the coal deposits of China assert that this country is capable of supplying the coal demands of the whole world at the present rate of consumption for the next 1,000 years. Experts place China's coal reserves at not less than 1,000,000,000 metric tons.

According to M. V. Tang, director of the Geological Survey of China, coal is very widely distributed throughout China; there is not a single province in which coal is not known to occur, but some are more favorable than others. The northeastern provinces, Shanxi, Chi-li, Shantung and Heonan are the most important. Shanxi is the richest of all. Inner Mongolia as well as Manchuria are fairly well supplied with coal, though in the former case it is less known. The northwestern provinces are much poorer, though Kan-su and Turkistan contain numerous coal fields.

The same may be said of the Yangtze valley and the southeastern coastal region where the possibility of finding coal is limited by unfavorable geological conditions. The provinces of Hunan and Kiangsi are the exceptions, especially Hunan, which is the Shanxi of southern China. The western and southwestern provinces are known to possess coal in very numerous localities, but on the whole they are much less important as the coal seams are usually much thinner and the fields are broken up into small patches.

Both bituminous and anthracite occur in China, but the latter is probably more extensive, as the coal in Shanxi and Hunan, the two richest provinces, is largely anthracite. Anthrachite has been more readily used by the Chinese because it can be burnt in open stoves without chimneys. The bituminous variety has in recent years acquired increasing importance, as the coal now worked on a large scale is mostly bituminous; in fact out of 20 machine worked mines, only three are mining anthracite. Both kinds of the coal are generally excellent in quality. The anthracite of Shanxi and Hunan and the bituminous coal of Chihli, Shantung and Kiangsi compare well with the best of its kind in other parts of the world.

According to the statistics compiled the production of coal of all kinds in all kinds in all provinces in 1913 was about 15,000,000 metric tons. The consumption of coal in China is surprisingly small when compared with her population of approximately 400,- 000,000. This is caused by the lack of transport facilities. Coal is a commodity which travels very far only in countries well supplied with railways.

In China where the price is often doubled by a day's journey, coal for household purposes is an article of luxury except in those fortunate places situated very close to the mine or connected with it by modern means of communication. This is one reason why the Chinese people are now so very anxious to extend their present utterly inadequate railway facilities. China's vast coal reserve is a practical reason why the United States should strengthen the ties, commercial and political, between China and America. It will pay us to help develop China.

We put it up to Hundreds of Dentists

Long before SENRECO was offered to you we submitted it to hundreds of dentists, requesting that they put it to every test. Told them that we believed Senreco to be an unusually good dentifrice, especially as to its cleaning qualities, and its remedial action on sore, soft, bleeding gums; in the treatment of Pyorrhea, etc. Submitted the formula and asked them their opinion. They tested Senreco from every angle; some going even so far as to make a chemical analysis—

And They Voted Yes

With practically one accord said:

"Senreco appeals to me more than any dentifrice I have ever seen." "I cannot say too much for Senreco. It's one of the best I have used." "I can recommend Senreco as the best." "Makes the teeth glister and is free from irritating ingredients including perfume and grit." "I am in-dubitably glad to get a tooth paste that does the work." "Congratulations you on formulating a dentifrice that gives one a new idea of mouth cleanliness, etc." (These endorsements are from the dentists' reports. Originals on file at our office.)
With such endorsements from the men who know why not go to your dealer today and get a tube of SENRECO—25c. Keep your teeth REALLY CLEAN, and protect yourself against Pyorrhea and decay.

ROCKWOOD MAN IS RECOVERING FROM BAD AUTO MISHAP

F. E. Miller Injured When Car Overturns on the Lincoln Highway.

TWO OTHERS ALSO BATTERED UP

Work is being rushed on the new Lutheran Church, the brickwork having been started; New Store is to be opened at Markleton.

Special to The Courier.

ROCKWOOD, Sept. 8.—The P. O. S. of A. convention that was held here last Monday, was a big success, the crowd was large and a good time was enjoyed by all.

Merchant E. E. Miller is slowly recovering from the injuries sustained in an automobile wreck last Saturday evening on the Lincoln Highway, four miles north of Stoytown, when his car backed over a stone wall 28 feet high. The car was badly damaged. Although it turned over in its downward flight there was no one killed. Besides Mr. Miller being injured, H. C. Benford, a Baltimore & Ohio conductor, had two ribs fractured and Mr. Brenham was badly bruised.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran Church was entertained at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wollerberger on Wednesday evening. The affair was enjoyed by all present.

The work on the new Lutheran Church is progressing rapidly. The brick work was begun last Monday with a large force of bricklayers. The work will be pushed as fast as possible.

John Vouch, for some time past a teacher in the Iron City Business College, has severed his connection with that institution and will assist his uncle, R. R. Kreger, in the operation of a new store at Markleton, to be known as the Markleton Store Company. They will occupy the store room formerly occupied by A. C. Englehart.

Herman H. Kerr is spending his vacation visiting the large cities of the east and at Atlantic City sight seeing.

Baltimore & Ohio Carpenter E. W. Oiler is off duty suffering from a crushed foot sustained when a large timber fell on it, crushing several of the small bones of the right foot.

SAVING OLD LUMBER

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Recovers Salvage From Old Freight Cars.

In an effort to aid the nation-wide movement for the conservation of the natural resources, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has established a reworking plant for the purpose of reworking lumber that may be reclaimed from dismantled freight car equipment, as well as from old wooden bridges, trestles and other railroad structures. The sawmill has been erected at a cost of about $7,500, and it is estimated that a saving of about $50,000 a year can be made.

The railroad heretofore has been burning up the bodies of its obsolete cars, but it will now work over the lumber into the regular sizes and grades.

As an example of the saving which will result from this method is cited the work of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, which, since it has been following the practice of reclaiming lumber from discarded box cars, has realized an average of about $20 for each car dismantled. The worked-over lumber can be used for station work, platforms and storage bins.

COKE COMPANIES

Swell The Fund, for a Motor Ambulance for Uniontown Hospital.

A movement is in progress in Uniontown, under the chairmanship of George F. Titlow, to raise money to buy a motor ambulance for the Uniontown hospital. Subscriptions thus far total $225.

Among the contributors are the following coke companies: Fayette Coke company, $50; Thompsons Connellsville Coke company, $50; Producers Coke company, $50; Waitersburg Coke company, $25; and Orient Coke company, $50.

Other companies have signified their intention to follow with substantial contributions.

BUFFALO-CHICAGO MARKETS

Not Much Activity in Former But Prices Firm; Nominal at Chicago.

The coke market at Buffalo does not show much activity, says The Coal Trade Journal, but prices are holding firm and unchanged at $5.35 to $5.50 for 72-hour Connellsville foundry, $4.35 to $4.50 for 48-hour furnace and $4.25 for stock.

The Black Diamond reports the market at Chicago nominal for the reason that no coke remained available for sale. Connellsville is held at $6; by-product foundry at $6, other sizes at $4.50 to $5.35; gas house, $4.60 to $4.75.

The LONE STAR RANGER

A ROMANCE OF THE BORDER

By ZANE GREY

AUTHOR OF
"THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS"
"RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE," ETC.

The two men spend much time together. Duane made up a short fiction story about himself that satisfied the outlaw, only it drew forth a laughing jest upon Duane's midway. For Fletcher did not hide his belief that this new partner was a man of achievements. Knell and Poggin, and then Cheseldine himself, would be persuaded of this fact, so Fletcher boasted. He had influence. He would use it. He thought he pulled a stroke with Knell. But nobody on earth, not even the boss, had any influence on Poggin. Poggin was concentrated on the part of the time, all the rest he was burning hell. But Poggin loved a horse. He never loved anything else. He could be won with that black horse Bullet. Cheseldine was already won by Duane's monumental nerve; otherwise he would have killed Duane.

Little by little the next few days Duane learned the points he longed to know; and how indubitably they etched themselves in his memory! Cheseldine's hiding-place was on the far slope of Mount Ord, in a deep, high-walled valley. He always went there just before a contemplated job, where he met and planned with his lieutenants. Then while they executed he busied himself in the sunshine before one of another of the public places he owned. He was there in the Ord den now, getting ready to plan the biggest job yet. It was a bank robbery; but where, Fletcher had not as yet been advised.

Then when Duane had pumped the new amenable outlaw of all details pertaining to the present he gathered data and facts and places covering a period of ten years Fletcher had been with Cheseldine. And herewith was unfolded a history so dark in its bloody realism, so incredible in its brazen audacity, so appalling in its proof of the outlaw's success and grasp of the country from Texas to the Grande that Duane was stunned. Compared to this Cheseldine of the Big Bend, to this rancher, stock-buyer, cattle-speculator, property-holder, all the outlaws Duane had ever known sunk into insignificance. The power of the man stunned Duane; the strange ability given him stunned Duane; the intricate inside working of his great system was equally stunning. But when Duane recovered from that the old terrible passion to kill consumed him, and it raged fiercely and it could not be checked. If that red-headed Poggin, if that cold-eyed, dead-faced Knell had only been at Ord! But they were not, and Duane with help of time got what he hoped was the upper hand of himself.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Again inaction and suspense dragged at Duane's spirit. But one day there were signs of the long quiet of Ord being broken. A messenger strange to Duane rode in on a secret mission that had to do with Fletcher. Duane was present in the tavern when the fellow arrived, saw the few words whispered, but did not hear them. Fletcher turned white with anger or fear, perhaps both, and he cursed like a madman. The messenger rode away off to the west. This was mystified and fascinated Duane as much as the south beyond Mount Ord. After the messenger left Fletcher grew silent and sullen. It became clear now that the other outlaw of the camp feared him, kept out of his way. Duane let him alone, yet closely watched him.

Perhaps an hour after the messenger had left, not longer, Fletcher manifestly arrived at some decision, and he called for his horse. Then he went to his shack and returned. To Duane the outlaw looked in shape both to ride and to fight. He gave orders for the men in camp to keep close until he returned. Then he mounted. "Come here, Dodge," he called. Duane went up and laid a hand on the pommel of the saddle. Fletcher walked his horse, with Duane beside him, till they reached the log bridge, where he halted.

"Dodge, I'm in bad with Knell," he said. "An' it bears in the cause of friction between Knell an' Poggin. Knell never had any use for me, but Poggin's been square. If not friendly. The boss had a big deal on, an' here it's been held up because of this scrap. He's waitin' over there on the mountain to give orders to Knell or Poggin, an' neither one's showin' up. I've got to stand in the breach, an' I ain't enjoyin' the prospect."

"What's the trouble about, Jim?" asked Duane. "Berkon it's a little about you, Dodge," said Fletcher, dryly. "Knell hadn't any use for you, but day Knell claims to know somethin' about you that 'll make both the boss an' Poggin sick when he springs it. But he's keepin' quiet. Hard man to figure, that Knell. Berkon you'd better go back to Bradford for a day or so, then camp out here till I come back."

"Why?" "Wal, because there ain't any use for you to get in bad, too. The game will ride over here any day. If they're friendly I'll light a fire on the hill there, say three nights from tonight. If you don't see it that night, you hit the trail. I'll do what I can. Jim Fletcher sticks to his pals. So long, Dodge."

He left Duane in a quandary. This news was black. At the moment Duane did not know which way to turn, but certainly he had no idea of going back to Bradford. Friction between the two great lieutenants of Cheseldine! Generally such matters were settled with guns. Duane gathered encouragement even from disaster. If Knell knew anything it was that this stranger in Ord, this new partner of Fletcher's, was no less than Buck Duane. Well, it was about time, thought Duane, that he made use of his name if it were to help him at all. That name had been MacNelly's hope.

He had anchored all his scheme to Duane's name. Duane was tempted to ride off after Fletcher and stay with him. This, however, would hardly be fair to an outlaw who had been fair to him. Duane concluded to await developments, and when the gang rode in to Ord, probably from their various hiding places, he would be there ready to be denounced by Knell. Duane could not see any other culmination of this series of events than a meeting between Knell and himself. If that terminated fatally for Knell there was all probability of Duane's being in no worse situation than he was now. If Poggin took up the quarrel! Here Duane accused himself again—tried in vain to revolt from a judgment that he was only reasoning out excuses to meet these outlaws.

Meanwhile, instead of waiting, why not hunt up Cheseldine in his mountain retreat? The thought no sooner struck Duane than he was hurrying for his horse.

In an hour he struck the slope of Mount Ord, and as he climbed he got among broken rocks and cliffs, and was hard put to it to find the trail. He halted at a little side-canyon with grass and water, and here he made camp. And on this night, lonely like the ones he used to spend in the Nueros gorge, and memorable of them because of a likeness to that old hiding-place, he felt the pressing return of old haunting things—the past so long ago, wild fights, dead faces—and the places of these were taken by one quivering alive, white, tragic, with its dark, intent, sparkling eyes—Ray Longstreth's.

That last memory he yielded to until he slept.

In the morning, satisfied that he had left still fewer tracks than he had followed up this trail, he led his horse up to the head of the canyon,

Fenced Him In.

into a narrow crack in low cliffs, and with branches of cedar fenced him in. Then he went back and took up the trail on foot.

Without the horse he made better time. Once, through a wide gateway between great escarpments, he saw the lower country beyond this, vast and clear as it lay in his sight, was the great river that made the Big Bend. It rounded a jutting corner, where view had been shut off, and presently came out upon the rim of a high wall. Beneath, like a green gulf seen through blue haze, lay an amphitheater walled in on the two sides he could see. It lay perhaps a thousand feet below him; and, plain as all the other features of that wild environment, there shone out a big red stone or adobe cabin, white water shining away between borders, and horses and cattle dotting the levels. It was a peaceful, beautiful scene. Duane could not help grinding his teeth at the thought of rustlers living in quiet and ease.

Duane worked half-way down to the level, and, well hidden in a niche, he waited himself to watch both trail and valley.

The sun went down behind the wall, and shadows were born in the darker places of the valley. Duane began to want to get closer to that cabin. Still he lingered. And suddenly his wide-awake eye caught sight of two horsemen riding up the valley. They must have entered at a point below, round the huge abutment of rock, beyond Duane's range of sight. Their horses were tired and stopped at the stream for a long drink.

Duane left his perch, took to the steep trail, and descended as fast as he could without making noise. It did not take him long to reach the valley floor. It was almost level, with deep grass, and here and there clumps of bushes. Twilight was already thick down there. Duane marked the location of the trail, and Looking backward to March 29, 1900, 16 years ago, in the Munson building, 106 West Main street, two country boys, W. N. Leche and H. S. Buckwalter, and a silent partner, Mr. S. M. Myers, all of Lancaster, Pa., started modestly in a room 18 1-2 by 70 feet and within a year enlarged to 100x18 1-2. In 1905, adding 65 feet more—making a depth of 165 feet—Mr. Leche bought out the partners' interest, and has successfully run the business, until he finds a more convenient room for handling an increasing business to be necessary, being all on one floor and more convenient to old and young, rather than where so many floors are used.

I wish to sincerely thank my friends and patrons and hope they will feel that the new store room will be like the new suit—a little better looking. We will not in the least allow it to give us the swelled head, but will continue to cater to the public in the same liberal way in which we have built up the business and assure you that the person wishing to spend the nickel or dime will receive the same courteous treatment and careful attention as the larger purchaser.

Friends are what we want, for as "trade follows the flag," Success equally may be said to follow friendship.

Remember, September 15th

Will find me located in my new store room at 121 W. Main, known as the Woolworth Building; room now occupied by The Horner Company as a Clothing Store. I extend to all my old patrons a hearty welcome, and from the depths of a grateful heart any and all who have contributed in any way toward making my business a success and hope a continuance of your liberal patronage. I remain respectfully then began to slip like a shadow through the grass and from bush to bush. He saw a bright light before he made out the dark outline of the cabin. Then he heard voices, a merry whistle, a coarse song, and the clink of iron cooking utensils. He smelled fragrant wood smoke. He saw moving dark figures cross the light. Evidently there was a wide door, or else the fire was out in the open.

Duane swerved to the left, out of direct line with the light, and thus was able to see better. Then he advanced there was no watchdog! But all his outlaw days he had taken risks with only his useless life at stake; now, with that changed, he advanced, stealthily and bold as an Indian. He reached the cover of the trees, knew he was hidden in their shadows, for at few paces' distance he had been able to see only their tops. From there he slipped up to the house and felt along the wall with his hands.

He came to a little window where light shone through. He peeped in.

He saw a room shrouded in shadows, a lamp turned low, a table, chairs. There was an open door, with bright flare beyond, but could not see the fire. Voices came indistinctly. He went on round that end of the cabin. Fortune favored him. There were bushes, an old shed, a wood-pile, all the cover he needed at that corner. He did not even need to crawl.

Before he peered between the rough corner of wall and the bush growing close to it, Duane paused a moment. This excitement was different from the one he had always felt when pursued. It had no bitterness, no pain, no dread. There was as much danger here, perhaps more, yet it was not the same. Then he looked.

He saw a bright fire, a red-faced man bending over it, whistling, while he handled a steaming pot. Over him was a roofed shed built against the wall, with two open sides and two supporting posts. Duane's second glance, not so blinded by the sudden bright light, made out other men, three in the shadow, two in the flare, but with backs to him.

"It's a smoother trail by long odds but ain't so short as this one right over the mountain," one outlaw was saying.

"What's eatin' you, Panhandle?" ejaculated another. "Blossom an' me rode from Faraway Springs, where Poggin is with some of the gang."

"Excuse me, Phil. Shore I never said you come in. An' Bolt never said nothin'."

"It took you a long time to get here, but I guess that's just as well," spoke up a smooth, suave voice with a ring to it.

Longstreth's voice—Cheseldine's voice!

Here they were—Cheseldine, Phil Knell, Blossom Kane, Panhandle Smith, Bolt—how well Duane remembered the names!—all here, the big men of Cheseldine's gang, except the biggest—Poggin. Duane had hated them, and his sensations of the moment deadened sight and sound of what was before him. He sank down, controlling himself, silenced a mounting exultation, then from a less strained position he peered forth again.

"DESTINY'S TOY"—A Famous Players production in which Miss Louise Huff make her first appearance in today's feature attraction. In this production Miss Huff has an exceptionally strong supporting cast, including J. W. Johnston, John Bowers and Harry Lee. The major portion of the action was staged on Block Island, the picturesque scenery of which makes it an admirable location for production. In five acts starring Beatrice and the life of Sam Carter, it tells the story of a girl who has been rescued from shipwreck by a man who has been adopted by the kindly old fisherman. "Destiny's Toy" is a combination of romance and drama, a tale of love and adventure, the fight in which the police raid the headquarters of the gang, being one of the boldest struggles ever recorded on the screen. To-morrow, "The Payment," a Triangle production in five acts starring Beatrice and the life of Sam Carter, it tells the story of a girl who has been rescued from shipwreck by a man who has been adopted by the kindly old fisherman. "Destiny's Toy" is a combination of romance and drama, a tale of love and adventure, the fight in which the not run away from home or does she avoid hard work when she leaves home and earns a living in the city that she may study at night and push on to success in an artistic career. The entire production is a source of delight, full of subtle revelation of character, admirably cast the illusion preserved by appropriate settings and atmosphere. A gem in the face collection. Miss Beatrice is ably supported by William Desmond and other star players. Thursday, September 21, Francis X. Bushman and Veverly Bayne will be seen in "A Virginia Romance."

SENIOR PRESENT.

"A TRIAL OF SOULS"—The latest episode of the "Who's Guilty" series featuring Anna Nilsson and Tom Moore, will be shown at the Senior Theatre today. The story shows the criminality of parents' attempts to furtherance of their own desires. The fathers of Rose Mason and Joe Fletcher sweeten us, are bitter political enemies and when Mason's son learns that his daughter has eloped with young Fletcher, he secures a warrant for the boys' arrest on the charge of abduction since the girl is under age. See the trial of souls. "The Trial of Chance," a new two reel drama shows Mary Fuller at her best. A plot where love and hate and mistaken identity all are important elements, Mary furnishes the quiet note of innocence and repose. This is exactly what Mary can do best as it is her charm that has placed her at the topmost rung of the ladder that leads to fame in the moving picture field. A Luck Leap, a Victor comedy with Ed Sedgwick tells a country boy who goes to the city. "Japan's Gateway" to the Temple of the Gods, a Powel educational drama is very interesting. Tomorrow Holbrook Blinn in the World drama "The Weakness of Man."

SWEET CORN IS UNUSUALLY HIGH NEAR SMITHFIELD

Some of the Stalks are More Than Eleven Foot
Tall.

THE EARS DON'T SEEM TO SUFFER

Contrary to the General Rule, They are Well Developed; Several of Our Gardeners Report Unusually Good
Development of Their Corn Patches.

SMITHFIELD, Sept. 8.—Gardeners of the borough are boasting of the tall corn in their truck gardens this season. Mrs. Metcalf reports a stalk 5 feet tall. The writer thought this pretty tall, but went into his patch and measured several stalks that exceeded this height. They range from 10 feet 3 inches to 11 feet six inches. It is not unusual for field corn to grow taller than this, but it is an unusual growth for garden or sweet corn to make, which was the kind that was measured. As a rule corn that makes such a growth of stalk does not produce as good ears, but this is an exception to the rule, it being well eared and a majority of the stalks having two perfect ears.

Illuminating figures setting forth the extent, amount of business handled, the vast capital invested and the importance of railway systems of the United States compared with those of other nations are given in a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society.

With its more than a quarter of a million miles, 267,669, on June 30, 1915, the United States not only leads every other nation in the world but exceeds by 50,000 miles the total railway mileage of Europe. In fact it has two-thirds as much mileage as all the rest of the world combined. The length of tracks including switches and sidings, reaches the enormous total of 391,000 miles, enough to reach from the earth to the moon and with a surplus sufficient to girdle the globe six times. Over these tracks 65,000 locomotives are operated, drawing 2,327,000 cars. If all these cars were covered into grain carriers and were placed at the disposal of the farmers of the country the entire 1915 wheat crop of more than a billion bushels could have been moved at once and not employed more than one third the total tonnage capacity.

The average number of employees of all the railroads in the United States whose annual operating revenues amounted to $100,000 or more last year was 1,109,312, the number of miles of road coming under this classification being about 225,000. The total compensation paid these employees was $2,165,000,000, an amount exceeding the total revenues of the United States government for 1913-14 by more than a hundred and twenty million dollars. The average annual wage of railway employees is therefore $225.

Among the railway employees in 1911 the largest average daily compensation went to general officers, $18.06, with other officers ranking second, $6.48. Paid in line of average daily compensation were the engineers, $5.24, followed by conductors, $4.47. The lowest wage was to the trackmen a daily average of $1.69 in every class save one (employees account floating equipment) the compensation for 1914 was more than in 1913, the largest daily increase going to the general officers, 39 cents, with firemen ranking next 9 cents, and conductors third, 8 cents.

For the twelve months ending June 30, 1915, our railroads carried 976,000,000 passengers, 78,000,000 fewer than during the previous twelve months. These travelers paid the roads $545,000,000, about 86 cents each and the average receipts per passenger were a fraction under two cents. The number of tons of revenue-producing freight handled was 1,802,000,000, for which shippers paid the roads $1,977,000,000. The average freight rate per ton mile for these shipments was a little less than three-quarters of a cent.

The total railway operating revenues for the year amounted to $2,956,000,000 with operating expenses of $2,088,000,000.

The railway capital of the United States actually outstanding on June 30th, 1915, was $19,719,000,000, equal to 44% of the total indebtedness of all the nations of the earth, computed prior to the outbreak of the European war. It is a sum representing more than 10% of the total wealth of the country, and equal to the wealth of Belgium, Spain and the Netherlands combined.
